FOUND among the papers left by my father, the late Gen. George A. Washburn, one in his own handwriting containing the following data on the genealogy of Abiel Washburn :

1. JOHN came to Bridgewater, Mass., from Duxbury, Mass., with 2 sons, John, Jr., & Philip. [He was born at Eversham, Worcester County, England, and settled in Duxbury before 1632. His wife Margaret followed with the two sons in ship Elizabeth & Ann from London. He and John, Jr., were among the original proprietors of Bridgewater, where he settled as early as 1665. He died before 1670.]
2. JOHN, Jr., married Elizabeth, dau. of Experience Mitchell ; had 6 sons and 1 daughter and then 1 son James.
3. JAMES, youngest son of John, Jr. [born 1672; married Mary Bowden 1693].
4. MOSES, son of James, married Hannah Cushman of Plympton, Mass., in 1727 and had Peter, born 1728 ; Moses, born 1730 ; Robert, born 1733 ; Ira, born 1735. Moses moved to Dartmouth, Mass., about the year 1740 with his family.
5. PETER, son of Moses, married A[bigail] Pope and had some children among them

Gen. G. A. Washburn

Foreword 6. IRA who married Martha Chace and had sons as follows : Peter, Ira, Thomas, Colvin, Caleb & Abiel youngest son.

7. ABIEL, born May 18, 1803, married Polly Webber July 25, 1825.

During the past ten years, at odd times, it has been my pleasure to add to this brief record, and carry it on to date. The result is this pamphlet, which I dedicate to the use of the future compiler of the "Washburn Family in America."

The book has been completed under many difficulties, the compiler himself undertaking the typesetting, printing and binding, doing the work as opportunity offered.

My thanks are due to the members of the family in Medina, Ohio, to Mrs. George W. Patterson of Springfield, Mass., and to a number of others who have assisted me from time to time.

ABIEL WASHBURN AND HIS DESCENDANTS

ABIEL WASHBURN was the youngest son of Ira Washburn and was born at Dartmouth, Mass., May 18, 1803. He probably passed his boyhood in that place. His immediate ancestors seem to have been plain, farming people who led respectable lives, raised large families and lived to ripe old ages. Abiel was probably named after General Abiel Washburn of the Revolution.

Abiel
Washburn
and his Descendants

Of Peter, the paternal grandfather of Abiel, very little is known. He was born in 1728 and moved to Dartmouth with his father, Moses, in 1740. He enlisted for the defence of Rhode Island during the Revolution and I have a bullet said to have been carried by him on that occasion. A cane once belonging to Peter has descended through several generations with the understanding that it must always go to a Washburn who has a son to inherit it. It is now in the possession of Egbert Washburn, of Medina, O., and will probably pass to his son Leroy, who also has a son.

Peter married Abigail Pope, of Dartmouth, Jan. 17, 1754. She was born Jan. 15, 1725-6, and was a daughter of Thomas Pope. Besides Ira there were probably two daughters.

Ira, the father of Abiel, was born in Dartmouth in 1757. He married, May 17, 1781, Martha Chace of that place and had Peter, Thomas, Anna, Ira, Jr., Colvin, Abigail,

Descendants

Caleb and Abiel. His son, Ira, Jr., settled in Palmer, Mass., and raised a large family. Ira moved there in 1828. He died Feb. 23, 1840.

Abiel Washburn must have preceded his father to Palmer, for an old account book now in the possession of his son Alvah shows that in 1823 he began work for his brother Ira at $14.00 per month.

On July 24, 1825, he married Polly Webber at Palmer, and resided at Belchertown, near by, where their first child was born. Polly Webber was a daughter of Joseph Webber who was born in Rehoboth, Mass., Sept. 17, 1772. She was born at Stafford, Conn., March 8, 1807. She was a sweet little woman, beloved by all who knew her. She died Feb. 7, 1875.

Abiel Washburn was a millwright by trade, and was considered an expert at building mills with waterwheels. His work took him to many towns to live. In 1835 he moved his family to Harford, Susquehanna County, Penn., traveling by wagon across country ; but the next July he returned and settled in West Stafford, Conn., where he stayed ten years and then moved to Springfield, Mass. Residing there thirteen years he then went to Waterbury, Conn., but returned to Springfield after two years' residence and went to work for the Wason Car works. When carpenter work failed him he put up a liniment for sprains which he sold. At one time he also carried on a small business selling notions through the country.

In 1870 he moved to South Belchertown on a small farm which he bought intending to pass his declining years at the peaceful pursuit of farming. On the death of his wife in 1875 he sold the place and visited among his sons and daughters. He died at Medina, O., on March 8, 1877.

As I remember my grandfather, he was a tall, angular man with the high forehead so characteristic of the Washburns. He led the humble life of a farmer and mechanic, but was respected in the communities in which he lived.

Although Abiel and Polly Washburn never possessed much of this world's goods, they worked hard all their lives, lived honestly and were blessed in seeing their five children grow up to manhood and womanhood. They are buried side by side in the graveyard at Belchertown, Mass. Surely their children inherited what is more precious than gold—an untarnished name.

SECOND GENERATION

2. George Abiel<sup>2</sup> Washburn (Abiel<sup>1</sup>) was born in Belchertown, Mass., April 23, 1827. As a young man he lived at West Stafford, Conn., and there learned the cabinet maker's trade but before he finished his apprenticeship he settled in Hartford, Conn., and for many years was a bookkeeper. At one time he was teller in the State Bank and later entered the insurance business, which he successfully followed, becoming one of the best known agents and adjusters in New England. He was a charter member of St. John's Lodge, F. A. M., of Hartford.

On May 14, 1861, he enlisted in the civil war, receiving the commission of First Lieutenant of the 4th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, afterwards the First Connecticut Heavy Artillery. May 22, 1862, he was promoted to be Captain of Co. M. June 22, 1862, he was commissioned Major of the 16th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers. He was severely wounded in the battle of Antietam on Sept. 17, 1862. He was made Lieutenant-Colonel March 30, 1864, and on March 13, 1865, he was made a General by brevet for gallantry at Antietam.

In 1883 he moved to Aiken, S. C., for the benefit of his health. He died in Walhalla, S. C., May 20, 1891. He is buried in Spring Grove Cemetery, Hartford, Conn.

He married, first, on April 23, 1848, Mary Graves Burt, of Hartford, Conn., who was born Jan. 31, 1828, and died Nov. 19, 1850.
